CHARLEROI WAR CHEST FUND HAS BEEN CLOSED BY DIRECTORS

ECONOMY WATCHWORD OF FUND

A meeting of the board of directors of the Charleroi War Chest Fund was held in the director's room of the First National Bank, Tuesday evening last, with all officers and members present except one, who was detained at home on account of illness. At that time the report of the financial operations of the War Chest Fund were presented by the Treasurer, R. H. Rush, and was unanimously approved by the Board. This account and all of the books of the company had been previously audited by S. W. Sharpnack, from the Charleroi Savings and Trust Company, Charles Bateman of the Bank of Charleroi and L. J. Mitchell of the First National Bank.

The audit went into every detail and the report showed not only from whom the money was received, but likewise where it was deposited, how much each bank paid out and the items for which all disbursements were made. All of the cancelled checks were likewise on hand, their correctness was verified by the Auditors, showing that the fund had been economically administered by the officials charged with the work, the only salaried officer being the Secretary, S. B. Cover.

H. J. Booth, President, and R. H. Rush. Treasurer, as well as members of the board of directors, gave lavishly of their time and energy and ability in administering the affairs of the Fund. their compensation being the satisfaction that their work had met with such success and that the community had been able through this medium to meet every demand made by the various war activities for financial help.

When the Auditors and the Treasurer made their reports it showed a balance in the treasury of $3 494 88. and all debts paid. After some discussion and suggestions this balance was divided as follows: To the Home Defense Police, $300.00 to assist in liquidating a debt carried by the organization: $1.000 to the Salvation Army, and $2.194 88 to the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross as an emergency fund. Checks were drawn for these various amounts and this closed the War Chest Fund to a cent. The work of the Board and the officers had been completed. and when they adjourned they felt that they had taken part in a great community movement which had brought credit to Charleroi and its citizens, as it showed that our people had been responsive to every demand and had promptly met the requirements and the requests of the various activities which had been organized for the welfare of the soldier both in camp and overseas.

THIS SNAKE WAS EVIDENTLY A MARINER

The crew of the steamer Hibernia is reported to have had a peculiar experience last Tuesday evening while passing Monongahela. Capt. Donner was on watch when he saw a large snake crawling up the steps to the boiler deck. He got an axe and cut off the head of the reptile, as the balance of the crew was "scared stiff" and had taken refuge at the stern of the boat. The snake measured 6 feet 10 inches and was of a yellow color with brown spots. Rivermen who heard the story say that almost anything can happen at Monongahela City.

WILL IMPROVE ROAD PAST OAKLAND PARK

At a meeting of the county commissioners and the controller at Washington Thursday evening, it was decided to extend the improvement of the Charleroi-Bentleyville road a distance of one thousand feet from the point where the Donora Construction Company has just completed its work. This additional improvement, which will consist of surfacing the road with concrete, will make an improved highway beyond the entrance to Oakland park. The work will be done by the Donora Construction company, which has all its equipment on the ground, and the price was fixed at approximately the same figure as submitted for other roads in the county. The work will begin at once.

Odd Fellows Will Hold Annual Memorial Services

Memorial services will be held Sunday afternoon, June 15, at 2:30 o'clock, by Charleroi Lodge, No. 1030, I. O. O. F., and Iris Rebekah Lodge, No. 299, Daughters of Rebekah, in honor of those members who answered the call during past four years. The exercises will be held in the Palace Theatre, and being open to the public it is expected the auditorium of the theatre will be filled to its capacity by members and friends of these two organizations.

The program has been carefully arranged and will be full of interest to all those who attend. Splendid music will be a feature, while excellent addresses will be made by local speakers. The program is as follows:

Introduction. piano; hymn to the air of "America;" prayer by Rev. G. A. Allison; music by quartette, memorial ceremonies in charge of George Moody, Noble Grand; roll call of deceased members by H. M. Christy, secretary, eulogy by Rev. G. A. Allison, music by quartette, address by Rev. John R. Burson, music by quartette, which will be followed by the closing ceremonies.

Members who passed away during the 4 years were, William Clark, Jos. W Thomas, Leonard Daugherty, Oliver S. Paxton, Hiram G. Hyatt, Adam Dale, Thomas Pratty, Otto E. C. Dorbritz, Gus. A. Brickner, Isaac W. Beazell, and Elmer A. Hazelett, from Charleroi Lodge and Mary L. Nicholson from Iris Rebekah Lodge.

DONORA ENTHUSES OVER GOOD ROADS

An enthusiastic road meeting was held at Donora last night, several hundred people being present at Donora park to listen to a number of speakers present the merits of the proposed bond issue. Sentiment in Donora is largely in favor of the issue, as that town realizes the absolute need of good roads. A concert by the Donora Steel company band preceeded the meeting. and a quartette from Washington furnished vocal selections. James P. Castner was chairman of the meeting. which heartily endorsed the good roads movement.

REPORTS CONFIRM BOMBERS' PLOTS

Telegrams from Chicago corroborate the story published in the Mail Tuesday afternoon, of the proposed bomb outrages to be perpetrated on the Fourth of July by the Bolsheviki element in this country. The information was secured in Monongahela that it was the purpose of that element to commit depredations on the day mentioned, and the authorities of that city notified federal officers of what they had learned. One man was arrested by federal authorities in the Pigeon creek valley on Thursday and taken to Pittsburg. He was believed to know something about the outrages which have been scheduled for next month.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness at the time of the death of our dear husband and father. Also for the many beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. Edward Geho and family.

SCHOOL PICNIC WELL ATTENDED

Charleroi school children, in charge of their teachers left for Eldora park this morning to enjoy their annual picnic. With splendid weather the attendance was up to expectations, and it is estimated that there are over two thousand pupils and their friends enjoying this splendid outing. The street car company had plenty of transportation available, and all were carried to the park without any discomfort. From the numerous and apparently well laden baskets taken along it was evident the picnic folks proposed to take care of all their wants during the day in a most liberal manner.

If exports of beef from this country have practically ceased, as announced, and there is no longer the excuse of scarcity, what keeps the price in the same old altitudes?

A FRIENDLY HINT.

We are paying 2c a word for this advertisement to tell our customers of present conditions in the dry goods market. The raw cotton market is very excited, advances of $10.00 a bale in a single day being common. Cotton advanced over $40.00 a bale (500 pounds) in May, consequently there has been a sharp advanse in the price of all cotton goods. The moment peace is declared, there will be an enormous demand from foreign countries for all classes of goods we manufacture and as the market is very bare at the present imagine how prices will soar when it is thrown open to the markets of the world once more. Millions of Europeans are now wearing clothing and underwear made of paper and straw. and some new born infants have old newspapers for swadling clothes. Imagine how eagerly those people will buy up our muslins, sheetings, flannelettes and bedding. Prices will be no object and the demand is a big factor in fixing prices. We are well supplied with ginghams, muslins, sheetings, etc., that we offer for a few days at from 3c to 10c less than present market prices, and suggest that it would be wise to buy now.

HEAVY STORM VISITS SOUTHERN END OF COUNTY

A heavy storm prevailed in the southern part of the county Wednesday evening, amounting almost to a cloudburst in the Marianna section. The storm area extended to points north of Bentleyville. The Catholic church is reported to have been struck while a son of Lloyd Squires at Bentleyville was badly injured by an electric shock.

A two headed snake is reported from Spokane with somewhat less of the usual strain upon credulity owing to the fact that Washington is "dry" territory.

WANT METHODISTS TO VISIT COLUMBUS

Rev. F. A. Richards, pastor of the Union Methodist Episcopal church of North Side. Pittsburg, and a former pastor of the Charleroi church, was in Charleroi on Thursday in the interest of the Methodist Centinery celebration to be held in Columbus. Ohio. from June 20 to July 13th inclusive.

Rev. Richards has been given a release of three weeks from his pastorial duties in order to bring the centinery celebration forcibly before the minds of the ministers and laymen of the Methodist church in the Pittsburg district. He only recently returned from Columbus, where he got a view of the magnitude of the undertaking which will show to the Methodist folk just what their great Centinary movement really is.

The State Fair grounds, comprising 114 acres, have been secured for the celebration, and are being prepared for the various exhibits which will be displayed during the three weeks in which the celebration will be held.

June 20 will be proclaimed a holiday and will be known as "Columbus Day," and thousands of people are expected to attend the opening session of the pageant Over 20,000 members will take part in these presentations, all of them paying for their own costumes and all paying the regular fee. A feature of the ocasion will be the music. with the big pipe organ to cost $50,000, now being installed, to be used as accompaniment. This organ is five in one and the greatest ever erected. A band from one of the Rainbow Division regiments will also be there and will add an interesting feature.

In fact Rev. Richards had much to tell concerning the celebration, and he urges every layman that can possibly do so to visit Columbus during this period, where he declares they will receive a great inspiration for future work in church circles

Notice.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will meet at 2 p. m. Sunday June 15 at the I. O. O. F. Hall to attend Memorial Service at Palace theatre. Order of Com.

Class of 1919 Awarded Diplomas After Completing Course

PROF. TEITRECK WAS SPEAKER

The twenty-seventh commencement exercises of the Charleroi high school are now a matter of history. The class of nineteen-nineteen has completed the required course and on Thursday evening received the diplomas for which the members have been so strenuously striving ever since their first entrance into the public schools. Of the thirty-three young men and women who completed their course in the local institution twenty-five were awarded the coveted diplomas, while eight others received certificates of efficiency from the two-year special commercial course.

The program arranged for the closing exercises were of a very interesting nature, opening with an overture, "William Tell," by the high school orchestra, directed by Prof. Daniel, followed by the invocation by Rev. G. A. Allison. The valedictory was delivered by John Savolaine, which was followed by the address to the graduating class by Prof. Reed B. Teitrick, deputy state superintendent of education. Prof. Teitrick was very happy in his remarks to the graduates, and emphasized the need of an education; he said that one completing the grade course had one chance in a thousand; a graduate of high school one chance in 450. and a college graduate one chance in 45. He said that education and happiness went hand in hand, and that every one should strive to so cultivate the mind as to make their chances in life that much better.

A soprano solo by Miss Emma Clutter, followed and the orchestra gave another selection, "Tannhauser," after which H. Russel Stahlman delivered the valedictory. A violin solo by Clare Guswiler completed the program of the class, after which Dr. Stahlman, president of the school board, presented the diplomas.

Prof. C. C. Lively, superintendent of the high school, then presented John Savolaine with the Rensselear Polytechnic medal, he having made the highest averages in mathematics and science during his high school course.

The class picture, "The Roman Forum," was presented by David Gluck, class president. This picture is dedicated to Miss Rosetta B. Rodgers, one of the science teachers in the high school faculty. who, after a number of years of successful teaching in the local institution, will this coming year go to Pueblo, Meixco. to teach in a mission school in that city.

The evening closed with the benediction by Rev. John A. Burson and a selection, "Stars and Stripes," by the orchestra.

The members of the graduating class are:

Georganna Bunting, Roscoe; Gladys Myrtle Bush, Charleroi; Allan Edward

REDFIELD RECANTS

Secretary of Commerce Redfield has evidently changed some of his views regarding the importance and methods of developing American industries since he was a member of Congress in 1912. In the Congressional Record of March 15th of that year appears an address of his in which he declared that "a tariff based on differences in cost of production is a logical and industrial absurdity," and also that "the Democratic party believes that the policy of a tariff for revenue only is not only a policy free from the logical absurdity of a tariff based upon the alleged cost of production, but that it is a policy which opens to our industries the way to development on normal and permanent lines where brains, character, and energy may work out their natural results to the profit of the manufacturer, to the advantage of the worker, and to the gain of the consumer."

In May, 1919, Secretary Redfield declares that "America has learned many lessons from the great war. She has, for example, found that cheapness and economy are not always identical, as for instance when we did not create a dyestuff industry of our own because it was cheaper to buy the German product, or did not develop our own supplies of potash because the German product could be for a time bought for less. There is such a thing, you see, as looking too closely at the figures on an immediate order and not considering sufficiently what will happen to the orders that are to follow in the coming days."

The American dyestuff industry was one of the few American industries not protected by Republican tariff legislation. The potash industry was another. Our attitude toward dyes and potash was that of the Democratic party, that it is best to buy where we can buy the cheapest.

In most other lines of production, we have insured the development of American manufactures by imposing an important duty high enough to constitute protection against importation of cheaper products from abroad. With regard to those other industries we did not agree with Mr. Redfield that a tariff based on differences in cost of production is a logical and industrial absurdity. The fact that they could be bought for less in Germany demonstrates that there was a difference in cost of production sufficient to induce the buyer to purchase the foreign product rather than that made in America.

THE TRUCK A FACTOR

When the plans of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department have been worked out, which will be within the next four years, the auto truck as a freight carrier will be a mighty factor in the transportation problem.

It is true it is doing a wonderful work at the preseit time, but bad roadways in many sections are holding up its proper use and development as a transporter of freight and merchandise. When good roads are more numerous than they are at the present time, it will be possible to maintain auto routes with something like regularity.

Today trucking by auto in many sections is made quite expensive by the heavy upkeep necessary to retain machines in service, but with the good roads constructed along modern lines, and capable of bearing [illegible] heavy loads, we will find the auto truck becoming a mighty factor in transportation. This will be particularly noticeable in districts which are not traversed by railroads, as the auto will make every section of the country easy of access by means of this modern convenience, and good roads will further the activity of this means of transportation.

MILITARY TRAINING

Soldiers of the Rainbow Division are reported to have returned from France enthusiastic advocates of universal military training for America. This sentiment is directly opposite that looked for by the pacifists and other opponents. It is the outcome of experience, however. Some may attach weight to the fact that the members of the Rainbow Division were in the National Guard before going into the Federal service. This is true, but the fact that they came out of the trying ordeal of war more than ever impressed with the need of training for all our youth should strengthen rather than weaken the value of their opinion. Generally the value of military training as an asset in life is becoming understood, while its importance to the nation is admitted wherever it has been soberly thought of.

AN EXPLODED IDEA

Not so long ago it used to be the custom to talk in terms of Government ownership whenever error was discovered in the operations of big business—particularly the public utilities. The idea of government ownership as a panacea came of the good old muckraking days.

Now never a word of the idea—except to curse it. From thinking about, we came to it. The Government has made many experiments but never one so costly as this.

Every public utility that the Government has taken charge of is showing a deficit. The railroads, notwithstanding rates have been boosted away up among the planets, are daily running farther and farther into the hole.

Under Government control of the telephone systems up go rates and down goes service. And with increased rates there is a deficit.

Wherefore the people pray Congress as soon as possible to provide for the return of everything the Administration has taken charge of back to the original owners.

Age of the Bagpipe.

It is wrong to suppose that the bagpipe is associated only with Scotland, for this instrument is centuries old and has always been known in Asia. People danced to the music of the bagpipe in the thirteenth century, the painter Raphael pictures a bagpiper, and didn't the Pied Piper of Hamelin play this same instrument?

Eagle Is Threatened.

The existence of the bird which is the emblem of America is threatened. An Alaskan law places a bounty of 50 cents on every bald eagle killed. The result is that in 19 months over 5,000 eagles have been killed. The bald eagle is charged with destroying salmon, young deer and game birds.

Strength.

Said the observing cuss: "The kid who was the despair of his parents because he couldn't carry a tune usually develops into the kind of business man who raises the mortgage off the old home place as soon as he gets in the harness."

A 200-Foot Dive.

The greatest depth ever reached by a diver is said to be 204 feet. The greatest depth at which useful work has been done is 182 feet. Sponge and pearl divers, working without armor, frequently descend to depths of about 150 feet.

HAS NEW IDEA IN SCULPTURE

Tennessee Girl Uses Dried Apples to Fashion Her Models of the Human Form Divine.

Down in Knoxville, Tenn., lives Miss Isabel Million, who has created a new and distinct art. To be brief, she has developed dried apple sculpture with remarkable results.

For years Miss Million has been interested in the various types of mountaineers who come down to her father's store to trade. Having artistic ability, she tried a good many times to model their quaint and weather-beaten faces by the conventional methods of sculpture, but the results did not satisfy her. One evening, while cutting apples to dry them for the future, she picked up a piece of partially dried apple and noted its striking resemblance to the wrinkled face of the usual elderly mountaineers, whom she was endeavoring to portray.

Taking up a sharp knife, she did a little cutting so as to fashion the wrinkled apple into a human face. The outcome was most successful; she saw possibilities in this newly discovered art; and she set to work experimenting in dried apple sculpture. Little by little she became quite expert in making dolls whose heads are simply dried apples, cleverly cut before they are dried.

Miss Million has found a satisfactory preservative with which she varnishes the dried apple heads when they have reached the desired state of dryness. The costumes and accessories are carefully copied from life; indeed, Miss Million always has some particular person in mind when she evolves a little doll with a dried apple face.—Scientific American.

HOME OF FAMOUS ORATORS

Eminent Men Who Have Occupied the Pulpit of "Spurgeon's Tabernacle," London, England.

Commenting on Dr. A. C. Dixon's resignation of the pastorate of the Metropolitan tabernacle, London, which will probably be known to the end of time as "Spurgeon's tabernacle," a writer in the London Christian World refers to some of the eminent men who have occupied that pulpit in the past—Benjamin Keach, John Gill, John Rippon, and others—and gives the following interesting incident: "Coming to more recent days, it is just thirty years ago since a trustee of the tabernacle spoke to Spurgeon about an American preacher named Dixon, who had spoken at the world's Sunday-school convention. Spurgeon at once invited him to speak at the tabernacle. It is interesting to recall the fact that they might easily have been associated long before. Dr. Dixon's father who sustained a pastorate of nearly 60 years in a church in a wood, in front of which he is buried, thought Spurgeon was the greatest preacher since Paul. He longed for his son to have a course of study at Spurgeon's college. Young Dixon sent in his application. Spurgeon's reply was: 'My dear sir, you can find institutions in your own country better adapted to your case. Please accept this as final.' Of course, it was in that way that the great preacher tested the persistence of his candidates. A. C. Dixon took him at his word, and never applied again. He was, however, destined to more than fulfill his father's desires, and following men like Spurgeon, and A. G. Brown, he has thoroughly maintained the tabernacle's great traditions."

Use of Metals in the War.

A German expert has been compiling some statistics of the use of metals in the war. He says that if the iron and steel used by Germany alone in 45 months of war were forged into a ring which went round the equator, each meter would weigh 30 hundredweight. If the mass of metal were made into a wall along the battle fronts—or 2,500 miles—a yard high and a yard thick, each yard would weigh 200 hundredweight. Germany sent to the front every week more guns than were used in the whole of the Franco-Prussian war. Twenty-four hours consumed more than did the whole of the earlier war. The moral he draws is that such things were only possible because Germany had been wise enough before the war to conquer the world's markets and oust her enemies.

Apropos of the liability of demobilized soldiers to contract colds as soon as they get into "civies" a correspondent suggests that probably the civilian clothes are the cause, whether they be warmer than the uniforms or not. Sir Ernest Shackleton had something to say about this matter on his return from the antarctic. "Notwithstanding the intensely low temperatures and almost incessant blizzards experienced, colds were quite unknown until a bale of clothing brought from England was opened. The next day there was an epidemic of colds in the party, and Sir Ernest's explanation was that the trouble was caused by microbes that had been hibernating, as it were, in the closely packed clothing.

The longest strike which Britain has experienced was that which broke out at Lord Penrhyn's slate quarries at Bethesda in October, 1900, and lasted until November, 1903. During these three years more than one and one-half million dollars was lost in wages alone; and whereas at the beginning Britain imported no slate, at the end ships were taking more than 1,200 tons of foreign slate a week to British markets.

DECLARES THAT UNDERWOOD STATEMENT IS MISLEADING

Washington County has gone before the people with a project that benefits the entire county, conceived solely for the purpose of adding to the progress of Washington county and providing for its future development. It has back of it absolutely no political motive and has frowned down any effort of any politician or prospective candidate to become identified with the movement. We welcome a fair discussion of the project on its own merits but we object to such deliberate and malicious misstatements as have been given out by the Anti-Bond Issue association."

NO ADJUSTMENT OF DIFFERENCES IN SIGHT

A conference was held Wednesday morning between employers and members of the building trades, but no progress was made toward a settlement of the differences now existing, and which have resulted in a cessation of work in all building lines.

We wish to thank the Boy Scouts, friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness at the time of the death of our beloved son. Also for the many beautiful floral tributes.
